You are an amazing acupuncturist, and I have gotten so much out of those treatments. You really did help me tremendously. I will never forget you, and I just think you really are an amazing human being!

Thank you for always cheering me on about makeup gigs, and life. It was very healing being in your office and I cant thank you enough.

I wanted to let you know how grateful I am for all your help over the course of my visits with you. You've taught me how important it is to take care of myself, not just physically (rest, sleep, the right food), but mentally, too... I've become a more sane person, and in Tyson's words, "much easier to be around." I still stress, but not nearly as much, and you can tell this by my skin, which every day is getting closer to perfect. I eat better, which in turn makes Tyson healthier, since I usually make the food! Your stories and life advice have always been much appreciated. And you have the patience of a saint!!

We have been taking our 12 year-old son to Noah for almost a year. His teachers had reported experiencing him as borderline ADD, with pronounced focus issues and low impulse control. His treatment has included acupuncture, herbal supplements and nutritional guidance. We have been so pleased to see the change in Michele's school and homework. His writing became neater, he is less argumentative, and is able to focus on tasks even when alone. He makes lists for himself now, so as not to forget things, and is able to follow through with them. He has even lessened his taste for sugar and video games! Noah has been a gentle and supportive voice throughout this journey, giving our whole family perspective during challenging times. We are so grateful to have had such a wonderful, non-drug treatment option cross our path in the form of such a warm, patient and knowledgeable person like Noah.

I have had the pleasure of being a patient of Noah Samuels, acupuncturist from 2006 thru 2009. I first came into his practice for my primary concern, dry macular degeneration. In addition, he worked on other points with the needles when other issues arose--and since I'm in my late eighties, there are always issues--constipation, pain in my left foot from the impact of a stroke, arthritis in my knees. His treatment, along with his superior nutritional background, succeeded in alleviating the pain, moderating the constipation, and my macular degeneration has stabilized. In 2008 he began to use an electrical wave machine on my eyes, in addition to the acupuncture.

After my success, in 2008 my adult daughter became a patient as well specifically for her beginnings of macular spots in her retina. Well, her retinal specialist has seen her twice in 2009 and he has shown enthusiasm for her macular tissues--there has been an improvement of her tests in comparison to 2005!!

My daughter and I will miss Noah's professional skills.

I first met Noah a little over a year ago at my son's school. Noah was giving a workshop on the use of Chinese medicine, nutrition and acupuncture for the treatment of ADHD and Autism. My son has Sensory Integration Issues and so naturally, I was interested. I immediately scheduled an appointment and we have been seeing Noah regularly ever since.

Once we started treatment, Noah taught us a great deal about the link between good nutrition and the use of supplements and herbs to balance brain chemistry. His overlapping expertise in these three fields really allows for a wonderful synergy of treatments. In our case, we took a battery of blood, urine and saliva tests which allowed Noah to hone in on my son's specific nutritional needs. Through diet, acupuncture, and Chinese herbs, we began to see subtle changes in my son's behavior. Specifically, it has assisted him in maintaining energy and staying calm in and out of the classroom. I would highly recommend Noah to anyone with similar concerns. In addition, Noah has a wonderful way with children.

I have also been meeting with Noah to assist me with peri-menopausal symptoms. For my part, I can tell you that my treatment has really helped me regulate my moods and enjoy renewed energy.
